

First Nation Community Planning

Inukshuk planners work with First Nation communities across western and northern Canada on regional planning, community development and capital planning.

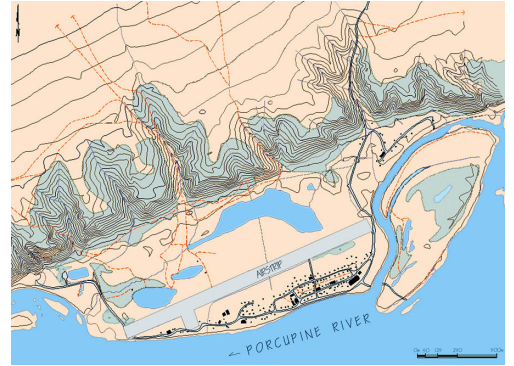

Staff share a common respect for mother earth and our work incorporates a commitment to skill transfer, capacity building, and shared decision-making.

Old Crow Physical Development Plan

This 2002 plan will guide land use decision making for the next five years.

The plan is a roadmap allowing community residents to see the direction Vuntut Gwitchin First Nation (VGFN) Council proposes to go on their behalf. By defining objectives and establishing priorities, it sets out an agenda for action that both the VGFN and Government of Yukon can respond to.

Client: Vuntut Gwitchin First Nation

Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in C-4 Subdivision Feasibility Study

Three options were prepared with associated servicing costs for this 22-hectare site at the confluence of the Yukon and Klondike rivers. Design challenges included the cost to re-grade the placer mine tailings and provide adequate flood protection.

Client: Tr'ondëk Hwëch'in First Nation

Inukshuk Planning & Development LTD.

207 Elliott Street
Whitehorse, Yukon Y1A 2A1
Phone: (867) 667-4759
Fax: (867) 667-4020
E-mail: info@inukshukplanning.ca

www.inukshukplanning.ca

Copper Joe Rural Residential Subdivision

At the request of the Klwane First Nation, a three-person team consisting of a planner, civil and geotechnical engineer developed a subdivision concept for a site near Burwash Landing overlooking Klwane Lake.

Client: Klwane First Nation